From the estate of a German art historian, we present the second half of a unique collection of beaded bags and beaded objects, gathered over a period of decades. The very title of our auction shows the passion and dedication with which the collection - beautiful, artfully crafted purses, pouches and clutches adorned with beads, in a wide variety of patterns and color combinations - was created.

Some pouches feature floral decorations in pastel shades, landscapes or hunting scenes, while others are designed in the Art Deco style with elegant geometric patterns in bright colors. The variety is great. Most of them are in very good condition, and there is no reason why they should not be used as fashionable accessories and worn with evening dresses or dirndls. But of course they are also absolute eye-catchers as showcase objects.

The collector focused her selection on crocheted and knitted bags from the 19th and 20th centuries, and her collection illustrates the close relationship between beadwork and the history of the handbag as a fashion accessory. The 19th century works are led by tobacco bags with hunting motifs (lot 745) and bags with a wide variety of floral designs (lot 738).

The 1920s are particularly strongly represented in the collection. Gold and silver colored steel beaded handbags do honor to the Golden 20's (lots 914-916), but beaded bags with geometric patterns and stylized flowers also depict the trend of the years (lots 874- 882).

At this time, the industry was also flourishing in Schwäbisch Gmünd and Göppingen, where manufacturers such as Fritz Schaupt or Hedwig Wortsmann had beaded bags and beaded pouches knitted by home workers. New motifs were designed for these, but Biedermeier decorations were also revisited, which is why it is often difficult to date the objects precisely. But also motifs from paintings or artists' postcards were taken up (Lots 890 and 920).

Already in the Middle Ages and throughout modern times, handicraft objects and articles of daily use were embroidered with small glass beads. The popularity was always subject to fashion trends, but at no time disappeared completely from the arts and crafts production. This is also shown by the evening bags of the 20th century (lots 918 and 919).

The offer is completed by numerous cases, purses and money boxes, pearl pictures, as well as necklaces and bracelets.

Enjoy the pearl fever with us.
